Two Lose Lives In Auto Crashes

Speeding Blamed for Both Kennesaw, Atlanta Mishaps

Two autoists of the metropolitan Atlanta area are dead today. Police blamed speeding for the accidents claiming their lives.

They are Russell Leroy Cassele, 23, of 218 Atlanta Ave., Decatur, and Homer Murray Leonard, 26, of Kennesaw.

Cassele died in Grady Hospital a short time after his car overturned and smashed into a stone column in front of the headquarters of the Georgia Department of the American Legion at 1428 Ponce de Leon Ave., Northeast.

His death brought to seven the number of traffic fatalities in Atlanta this year as compared with six for the same period last year.

Pt. G. T. Bennett and R. E. Mann said Cassele's machine, apparently traveling at a "high rate of speed," went out of control, causing it to roll over and crash into the Legion headquarters' gate entrance.

Cobb County police said Leonard was killed instantly when his car, apparently "traveling at a high rate of speed," left Highway 41 at the Kennesaw city limits and struck a guard rail.

Survivors are his mother, Mrs. W. H. Leonard, Kennesaw; four sisters, Mrs. O. E. Wilbur, Miss Blondine Leonard, both of Kennesaw; Mrs. T. E. Abernathy and Mrs. Clyde Davis, both of Acworth; three brothers, West Leonard, Kennesaw; Doyle and E. L. Leonard, of Acworth.

Funeral arrangements will be announced by the Mayes Ward Funeral Home.

Funeral arrangements for Mr. Cassele will be announced later by H. M. Patterson & Son.

He is survived by his widow, a son, Anthony Cassele; his mother, Mrs. Lucy Cassele; father, John C. Cassele; two brothers, Henry C. Cassele, of Atlanta, and Milford Cassele, of San Pedro, Cal., and two sisters, Miss Madeline Cassele, of Atlanta, and Mrs. James H. Copeland, of Carthage, Texas.

DIANA BARRYMORE Suffers Back Injury

BARRYMORE ABED

Diana Hurt: Car Tosses Leading Man

Diana Barrymore, sultry screen and stage actress and her husband, John Howard, Jr., found things rather "confusing" yesterday.

Miss Barrymore, heir to the theatrical fame of her late father, John, was confined to her bed in the Ansley Hotel after X-rays showed she suffered a severe back injury in a Virginia auto collision three days ago.

Her husband, a 25-year-old tennis instructor, was "confined" to a jail cell in Chicago after Chicago detectives arrested him in a vice squad raid there.

Miss Barrymore was scheduled to open in the Penthouse Theater here Monday in Moss Hart's "Light Up the Sky." But, doctors say she will be confined to her bed for "at least three weeks."

The noted young actress who appeared here in the same play earlier in the season, was motoring to Atlanta with her leading man, Robert Wilcox, when another motorist side-swiped their 1949 model Oldsmobile convertible coupe at a "complicated" traffic circle in Charlottesville, Va., Wednesday afternoon.

Wilcox, handsome leading man of the cinema, who has appeared in several stock company productions with Miss Barrymore, during the past three months, was thrown from the car by the impact. He suffered a black eye, but Penthouse officials said they believed "a little make-up will smooth that out."

Wilcox said Miss Barrymore apparently wrenched her back when she attempted to grasp the steering wheel when he swerved to avoid the oncoming car. The Wilcox war was abandoned and the pair proceeded to Atlanta via train. The auto was left to be repaired.

Miss Barrymore's spouse, who broke into print when the couple engaged in a fist encounter on the streets of Louisville, Ky., in May, 1947, was seized while in the company of Betty Allen, 25, who admitted to Detective James Hoyer that she had "made more than $8,000 as a 'call girl' during the last four months."

Hoyer told a Chicago Tribune reporter that the Allen woman had said "Howard had been living with her off her earnings." Also arrested in the raid was Miss Lee Reynolds, 23, who said she was a nurse, and Jacqueline Wells, 27, a model. Detective Hoyer said the two women also admitted being "call girls."

Hoyer said Howard's arrest followed a complaint from a woman, who said Howard had bilked her out of $500 and her new automobile.

Following his arrest, Howard revealed his identity to Hoyer by giving an account of a fight he and Miss Barrymore had in Louisville. At that time, Louisville police charged that the couple engaged in a fist fight on a street corner, then brawled with a policeman who sought to arrest them.

Wilcox said he would play his role in "Light Up the Sky" as scheduled. The Penthouse Theater announced that Miss Barrymore's part would be taken by Audrey Christie, who was scheduled to arrive here today. Miss Christie played the same part in the original Broadway version of the play, which is chock-full of the troubles besetting the theatrical set.

GETTING READY FOR WILD ANIMAL AND MAGIC PARTY TODAY! Host Asa Candler, Jr., poses before one of his trophies... Clown-Magician Sammy Sears makes up for act

Jerusalem UN Plan Held Impractical

Supervise Shrines, McGill Suggests

JERUSALEM—(AP)—Ralph McGill, Editor of The Atlanta Constitution, described as impractical the United Nations decision to proceed with internationalization of Jerusalem.

He added, however, that he believes the UN should supervise the holy places in the city.

"I do not believe that the present division of the city into Israel and Arab-administered parts with rival soldiers facing each other is desirable as a permanent solution," he said yesterday in an interview here.

"Maybe one day Israel can negotiate with King Abdullah, of Hashimite Jordan, for a solution which would restore the entirety of Jerusalem."

McGill had been here in 1948 when Palestine was torn by Jewish revolt against the British mandatory power. The Jerusalem police headquarters was blown up during his stay here.

McGill said he viewed the successful establishment of Israel as justifying the action taken by the UN in setting up a Jewish State. McGill arrived here four days ago. He has conferred with Dr. Daniel Auster, Mayor of the Jewish-administered part of Jerusalem.

MAGIC, CLOWN, MOVIE, TOO

Candler Animal Party Invites You, Kids

By CELESTINE SIBLEY

This is the day, children! This is the day of the wild animal party and magic show to which ALL of you boys and girls and your parents are invited by Asa Candler, Jr.

The place: 1680 Gordon Rd., S. W., Candler's trophy room in the West View Corporation office building.

The time: 2 to 4 p. m.

The party, staged in memory of Coca, the well-loved elephant Candler gave the zoo, will spark the citywide campaign for funds to replace Coca, and will be held indoors. So whether it rains, whether it sleets or snows, the party's on, folks—and you're welcome!

Sammy Sears, Sears-Roebuck's famous clown-magician, will be there with his laugh-producing, reason-defying tricks. Host Candler, a famed game hunter and veteran of a number of expeditions into the jungles of Africa, will exhibit a movie of an actual elephant hunt.

Candler's grandson, Asa Candler, V, who was with him on his most recent hunt, will act as narrator for the film. The host and his son, Sam Candler, both magicians in their own right, will stage other magic shows.

Ice cream and cake will be served and there will be ample time for youngsters and their parents to inspect the many mounted heads of wild animals which decorate the walls of the trophy room. The entertainment, the refreshments, the entire party is free.

J. C. Steinmetz, president of Suburban Coach Lines, is providing transportation for youngsters from Decatur Methodist Children's Home and the Atlanta Boys Club. The Boys Club will send their famous hill-billy spoon band. Radio Station WCON will record festivities and feature the party on a broadcast at 7 p. m.

Fulton County police officers will be stationed on Gordon Rd. to direct party-goers to the trophy room. Those who do not have automobiles may catch a regular West View bus, which traverses Forsyth St. leaving downtown.

While arrangements for the wild animal party are humming along, Georgia children continue their earnest all-out effort to raise the money necessary to buy an elephant to take Coca's place. All 25 of Atlanta's fire departments are receiving stations for contributions. Bill payers lining up at the front counter in The Constitution lobby invariably drop a coin or two in the cunning pastel elephants placed there. The audience attending the Ted Mack Amateur Hour at the auditorium was good-naturedly badgered and kidded into giving $72.71 by three Shriners rattling Constitution fund boxes.

Members of the Boys Club have offered the proceeds of their regular Saturday night movie and dance to the fund.

Editor Meets Claxton Klan With Gun

Shoots at Auto Crossing Lawn

CLAXTON—(AP)—A crusading weekly newspaper editor said yesterday he used gunfire as his answer to Ku Klux Klansmen trying to intimidate him.

Editor Milton Beckerman, of the Claxton Enterprise, reported 25 or more automobiles loaded with Klansmen, drove by his house Thursday night after a Klan rally. Several cars whipped across his lawn, horns blaring.

"In order to protect myself I figured it was best to fire a shot at the caravan," Beckerman said. He added he fired once at the rear of the third car that crossed his lawn. The cars then disappeared.

A Klan rally was held at a Claxton tobacco warehouse Thursday night. About 100 or more Klansmen, robed but without masks, attended. Beckerman said he was told Samuel Roper, Imperial Wizard of the Association of Georgia Klans, denounced the editor's writings against the robed order.

In his weekly paper, Beckerman has been urging the abolition of the Klan. He said there have been numerous beatings of whites and Negroes in this section recently.

The editor said a representative he asked to attend the Klan meeting reported Roper called Beckerman's editorials "a pack of lies."

Beckerman came here about a year ago from Swainsboro, where he published the Swainsboro Forest Blade.

Roper's Atlanta office said the imperial wizard was out of town, but said it did not know whether he spoke at Claxton.

Bombings Panic Canton Chinese Reds

HONG KONG—(AP)—Canton, greatest city of South China, was depicted by independent Chinese yesterday as a center of terror and Communist government crisis, all because of a handful of Nationalist air bombs.

Promiscuous shootings by frightened Red troops, use of forced labor and a financial panic are reported elements in the atmosphere of fright.

The Reds have not tried to conceal the fact that they are attempting to move their regional government to a safer place. They have encouraged the mass flight of civilians since the damaging Nationalist air raids of March 3.

Dispatches brought out by reporters for independent papers in this British colony 70 miles away paint a picture of fear and despair in that city of more than 1,000,000.

Recall 3 Envoys, Hungary Insists

'Persona Non Grata' Label Put on Legation Officers

BUDAPEST, Hungary—(AP)—Hungary demanded last night that the United States recall three of its high-ranking officers on the staff of the U. S. Legation here.

Hungary termed "persona non grata" (unwelcome) Col. James Kraft, Military Attaché; Lt. Col. John Hoynes, Deputy Military Attaché, and Maj. Donald E. Griffin, Deputy Attaché for Air. The Communist-led government protested "the overgrown number of the staff of this legation."

Budapest demanded Feb. 23 that both the United States and Britain reduce their staffs here. The demand was a result of the trial of American businessman Robert A. Vogeler, sentenced to 15 years on spy charges.

Both the United States and Britain rejected Hungary's complaint that the legation staffs here were too large.

Yesterday Britain announced she would withdraw two persons listed specifically as "persona non grata" by Hungary—Lt. Col. Percy Capron, British Military Attaché, and Edward Southby, British Commercial Attaché.

The original Feb. 23 note was a general demand for a reduction of the legation staffs. Hungary directed to the British later a note like that to the United States, specifically naming two attaches. The British Foreign Office pointed out that it automatically withdraws members of a mission who are listed as "persona non grata."

Vogeler had testified that Hoynes and Griffin had been in touch with him during his alleged spy activities and that Kraft "also knew about my espionage activities since he had been a close friend ever since we met in Vienna several years ago."

In the original notes of Feb. 23, Hungary protested that "it has been proved that several officials of the United States and British legations in Budapest took an active part in the subversive work of the group of saboteurs and spies." It then listed the names of British and American personnel mentioned by Vogeler and Sanders in the trial.

In a sharply worded reply March 4, the U. S. State Department rejected the Hungarian suggestion but conveyed the idea that the legation staff would be reduced anyway.

Gubitchev, was convicted with Judith Coplon of attempting to spy for Russia. He was sentenced to 15 years in jail, but Secretary of State Dean Acheson recommended that the sentence be suspended and Gubitchev returned to Russia.

It was believed that he would leave for Russia sometime this month.

He probably will sail on a Gdynia-America Lines ship. The line operates the S. S. Batory, on which Communist Gerhard Eisler made good his escape from the U. S. last year.

A spokesman for the line said he has seen no reservation indicating Gubitchev will sail on the Batory's next trip from New York, March 20.

Molotov: Russia Unafraid Of an H-Bomb Unmade

MOSCOW—(AP)—Soviet Deputy Prime Minister Molotov declared yesterday that only lunatics could hope to frighten the Soviet people with a hydrogen bomb "which does not exist."

He asserted in an election speech that while all sorts of blackmailers from the imperialist camp had been trying to scare the USSR with a monopoly of atomic bombs, the USSR was successfully mastering atomic energy and atomic weapons.

He went on to say that now the same blackmailers are trying to scare the Soviet Union with the hydrogen bomb.

The Soviet Monitor in London, translating Molotov's speech as heard over Radio Moscow, quoted him as saying:

"Yesterday they terrorized us with the atom bomb. Today they are striking terror with the so-called hydrogen bomb, which never before existed in the world."

"But while they were engaging in blackmail about the monopoly possession of the atomic bomb, the Soviet people, as is known, did not waste time but mastered the secret of atomic energy and the atomic weapon."

"Only fools can indulge in the insane calculation that they can terrorize the Soviet Union."

Sander Relaxes, Awaits Ruling of State Board

CANDIA, N. H.—(AP)—Dr. Hermann N. Sander returned to quiet family life in his big white colonial farmhouse yesterday to await consideration of his professional future by the ruling medical body of New Hampshire.

Freed from a charge of murder after the death of a hopelessly ill woman cancer patient in December, the 41-year-old country doctor relaxed with his wife and three children.

But still to come is a hearing before the State Board of Registration in Medicine—a five-man group which will decide what action, if any, it should take in Dr. Sander's handling of the case of dying Mrs. Aggie Borrolo.

Dr. John S. Wheeler, state health officer and secretary of the state board, reported the ruling medical body will "not be swayed by any group"—"we will sit down and make our own decision."

The state board's meeting will follow a discussion of young Dr.

Sander by the house of delegates of the New Hampshire Medical Society on Sunday.

The Society does not have any legal authority, but it generally makes recommendations to the State board, which has the right to grant or revoke medical licenses.

Restrictions prohibiting Dr. Sander from practicing medicine during his trial were automatically lifted with his acquittal by the 12-man jury in Hillsboro County Court in Manchester late Thursday.

Fast Deposit Yanks State Out of Hole

A hasty deposit of March tax receipts cleared the monthly hurdle yesterday for Gov. Herman Talmadge's $20,000,000 annual expansion program in State services.

State Auditor B. E. Thrasher and Revenue Commissioner Charles Redwine announced that about $375,000 in March revenue had been deposited in the State treasury.

Thrasher said this was more than the amount needed to continue Talmadge's increased budget allocations for schools, highways, hospitals, and welfare pensions and payments.

The expanded program ran into hot water when February revenue failed to raise necessary funds to continue the plan during March.

Normally, the Revenue Department does not make a deposit of its tax receipts until after the fifteenth of the month.

To meet the deficit for the expanded program, however, Redwine rushed over some March collections about a week ahead of usual.

The only thing needed for the actual allocations this month is Gov. Talmadge's signature.

Faced with difficulties in financing the program, Talmadge has shifted to a month by month method of paying for it.

The monthly allocations include $716,000 for schools, $416,500 for roads, $291,500 for welfare benefits, $83,000 for the University System, $83,000 for Battery Hospital, and $41,500 for Milledgeville State Hospital.

These payments are in addition to the regular State budget of about $110,000,000. Talmadge pushed through higher taxes on gasoline, beer, liquor, wine, cigarettes and corporation income to pay for the program.

RADIO REPORTS AUTO IS STOLEN WHILE CRUISING OFFICERS ADMIRE IT

"How'd you like to own a car like that yellow convertible in front of us," an Atlanta police lieutenant commented to his partner as they cruised along Grant Street, S. E., near Milledge Avenue.

Before Ptl. Raymond Edmondson could answer his superior, Lt. E. S. Faucett, the police radio crackled out a lookout for a stolen car.

Taking the clipboard on which license plates of stolen cars are written for reference during the course of a night's patrol activity, Edmondson and Lt. Faucett heard the radio operator describe a machine identical to the one driving ahead.

Checking the license numbers hurriedly the officers quickly determined the alleged stolen machine and the one ahead were the same.

Edwin H. Burton, of Louisville, Ky., listed as driver of the car, told the officers he had taken the car only 30 minutes before on Central Avenue. He explained to them he only "wanted to ride around a little bit." He was booked on charges of suspicion of auto larceny.

W. Berlin Boys Stone Commies

BERLIN (AP)—Hotheaded West Berlin youths stoned a Communist rally on the Soviet sector border yesterday.

Boys between the ages of 14 and 18 threw bricks and stones from a pile of bomb rubble into a crowd of 5,000 who heard Gerhart Eisler, East German propaganda chief, assert that 500,000 young Communists intend to march on Berlin this Whitsuntide in May.

West Berlin police broke up the stone throwing before anyone was seriously injured, but an ugly tension pervaded the rally. Wordy altercations sprang up across the American-Soviet sector boundary.

Red-Led Strikers Routed With Gas

PARIS (AP)—French police and mobile guards used tear gas against demonstrating strikers in two French cities last night as tempers flared higher in the docks and public utilities walk-outs.

Tear gas grenades were thrown at Moulins, in Central France, where a crowd of about 600 had defied police orders and marched on the Prefecture after a meeting sponsored by the Communist-dominated General Confederation of Labor (CGT).

Strikers who tried to parade through the streets of Rombas, near Metz, were dispersed by mobile guards using tear gas.

Fulton Cotton Champs Told Crop's Value

Fulton County's 46 cotton-producing champions were told by a ranking agricultural figure that it is not yet time to sell cotton short in their farming programs.

"Cotton still remains Georgia's No. 1 cash crop," Walter S. Brown, Director of the Agricultural Extension Service, reminded the 1949 five-acre cotton contestants at a dinner given by Fulton County Agent and Mrs. Sid Truitt.

Despite the fiber's contribution to the South's poor soil and low economic status, it is not entirely responsible for the farmers' plight, Brown added.

"The same one-crop dependence, had it been on poultry, livestock, or peanuts would have been just as devastating. The problem is finding the right place for cotton in a balanced agricultural program."

Truitt named the top five cotton growers as L. G. Buice, J. W. Thompson, H. G. Buice, Claude Inghram and Willard Thompson. He awarded each 100 pounds of cotton seed.

Certificates of achievements were given each ranking cotton grower, together with gifts for both the farmer and his wife.

Truitt seconded Brown's emphasis on the continuing importance of cotton, and urged farm parents to interest their children in 4-H work.

"It is far easier and more satisfying," he concluded, "to mold the boy or girl than to mend the man or woman."

WHAT TO EXPECT TODAY

General Tendencies—An unsettled day appears for this date, a hard one on which to plan social matters or any entertainment. There are too many chances of people dropping out or last minute rearrangements to make such occasions truly happy. Maybe the very first part of the morning will be fairly successful for business matters but I would certainly want to have any such responsibilities entirely settled before the middle of the afternoon. Don't take risks with money here.

If It's Your Birthday—No one likes to write about oppositions and delays, but these seem to be the chief matters ahead for the people born right around this date in any year. Plan upon spending twice as long as you might think necessary to get important jobs done during 1950. In case you want to know what to blame, the answer is the position of the planet Saturn. This will change by the end of the year and you then will go your way with quite a little profit and pleasure.

Richard Grant, secretary, was presented the Xi Psi Phi secretary's key, and the president, Roy Wicker, was presented the past president's key. The banquet honored the seniors in the fraternity, and Dr. R. E. Sturdevant, of the Emory University School of Dentistry, was guest speaker. B. A. Fields was master of ceremonies. A breakfast was held at the fraternity house after the dance.

When a Feller Needs a Friend

When you need help, there's one friend who never stops to ask who you are, or which church you attend, or if you're rated in Dun and Bradstreet. That friend is the Red Cross and its only condition of serving is you need.

Many of us think of Red Cross services in terms of major disasters... floods, fires, hurricanes, tornadoes. But the Red Cross doesn't just sit around until disaster strikes. Every day, Red Cross workers go quietly about the ordinary, un-spectacular tasks of easing burdens in your community. Perhaps it's locating an apartment for a homeless family—sending individual birthday cakes to patients at Lawson—obtaining a rare type blood for an RH baby—chauffeur disabled veterans to the Ice Show—furnishing transportation for children from their homes to the hospital.

Whether it's serving hot coffee and doughnuts or saving a life, the Red Cross is always there when a teller needs a friend. There's no price tag on these many big and little services but But there is a way you can say "Thank You"! By giving now to keep the good work going!

The Red Cross serves around the year—around the world! Give generously to keep the good work going!

Group To Map 10-State War On 'Leggers

Georgia and 10 other Southern States will map plans here for shutting off bootleg liquor supplies flowing Southward from Illinois and other Northern and Midwestern States, State Revenue Commissioner Charlie Redwine announced.

Liquor control officials from Illinois, Missouri, Arkansas, Louisiana, Florida, Tennessee, Alabama, Kentucky, North Carolina and South Carolina will meet March 29 at the Henry Grady Hotel.

Redwine reports that legal liquor dealers in Georgia are complying with the law fairly well since the recent probe which shut down several and suspended others from doing business.

"The 52-B Federal reports show no shipments by licensed Georgia dealers into dry counties today," Redwine says. At the time of the investigation, Georgia dealers were frankly reporting their illegal dry county sales to the Federal Government. While some dealers may be successfully covering up illegal sales, Redwine says law violations by Georgia's legal dealers obviously have been drastically reduced and are at a minimum.

"Our trouble today is with out-of-State firms which are bootlegging liquor into Georgia," the Commissioner declares. "We hope to pool our efforts with surrounding States and with the home States of liquor manufacturers and shut off this illicit supply of liquor at its source."

The conference was first suggested by Chalmers Taylor, new Chairman of the Illinois Liquor Control Commission.

Russia Quits Big Five UN Meeting

LAKF SUCCES —(P)—Russia walked out of a Big Five meeting in the United Nations yesterday. It was the fifteenth Soviet walk-out-strike since Jan. 10. The Russians are protesting the presence of Nationalist Chinese in UN bodies.

Sec. Gen. Trygve Lie told his weekly news conference he could not comment "at this time" on editorial attacks in New York morning papers on his suggestion that China should be represented by the government actually ruling the 460,000,000 Chinese people.

The new Soviet walkout followed the now familiar pattern. Russia's V. I. Kobushko asked a Program Committee of the Economic and Social Council to expel P. Y. Tsao, Nationalist Chinese delegate.

Louis K. Hyde, U. S. delegate, Tsao voted against the Russian motion, and only Kobushko supported it. Britain's Ledward and France's Jacques Devinat also voted against.

$9,500,000 Refunded Taxpayers in State

Uncle Sam has paid early-bird Georgia Federal income taxpayers more than $9,500,000 in refunds since Jan. 1—and there's more where that came from.

U. S. Income Tax Collector Marion Allen makes that cheery report.

Allen said an estimated one-third of the 800,000 returns he expects from Federal income taxpayers in the State are already in. That March 15 deadline is creeping up on tardy filers, he warned.

Collectors' offices on the second floor of the Old Post Office and at 52 Walton St. will remain open from 8:30 a. m. to 5 p. m. today to accommodate taxpayers. Offices are usually closed on Saturdays, but deputies will work overtime today to speed up filing of returns.

On Wednesday, final date for settling up with Uncle, the offices will be open from 8:30 a. m. until midnight, Allen announced. Tax experts are on hand each day to receive returns and to help persons baffled by Government forms. "Don't wait too late to file," Allen advised, "or you'll find yourself at the end of a long, long line. And don't forget — after March 15, Uncle Sam will penalize you for missing the deadline!"

Another Youngstown Prospect at Georgia

The Saturday sports serenade: Georgia football fans will be eyeing another Youngstown, Ohio, product with keen interest in the "G" Day game today. . . . Hailing from the home of such former Bulldog greats as Sinkwich and Poschner is a lanky center, Art De Carlo. . . . Observers say he has the inside track as the first-string defensive job next fall. . . . Mike Ullsner, former Cracker catcher, has been named manager of Niagara Falls in the Middle Atlantic League. . . . Think this sports writing won't get you? . . . Clarence Weikel resigned a job on the Dallas News sports staff to become, of all things, an umpire. . . . Speaking of Dallas, Millionaire Owner Dick Burnett has moved the Steers' opening game from the ball park to the Cotton Bowl Stadium. . . . He hopes to draw a crowd of 40,000 and prove his contention that Dallas is a prospective major league town. . . . Burnett, incidentally, is the fellow who is paying Charley Grimm $30,000 a year to manage an AA team. . . .

Same Ol' Slug Paul Richards evidently doesn't believe in the old adage about teaching an old dog new tricks. . . . The first thing he did with his new club, Seattle, was put it through a long fundamental practice. . . . Same Ol' Slug, as former Cracker can testify. . . . He used to run 'em at Savannah and St. Augustine Bill they nearly dropped. . . . Dick Wakefield says he'll make good for the Yankees or quit. . . . Dr. David Tracy, the Browns' psychiatrist, barred newsmen from his first lecture to the Browns. . . . But the next time he swooned eight of 'em with one sweep or spell or whatever he does. . . . Davidson College has a new football coach, Crowell Little, a split-T advocate. . . . In Spring practice, Decatur's Auburn Lambeth was the man under the center. . . . Home attendance at Florida's swimming meets averaged better than 800. . . . The Gators have a track man from Chili, Hugo Nutini, who finished second in the half mile even in the North Carolina relays. . . .

Tech Backfield Georgia Tech's starting backfield next season is likely to embrace Bobby North at fullback, Roy Thompson at left half, Buster Humphries at right half and almost anybody as T-quarterback. . . . Look for Big George Morris to stand out at center when the Jackets start serious Spring practice a couple of weeks from now. . . . Auburn's successor of Travis Tidwell as T-quarterback, Bill Tucker, is a catcher on the Tiger baseball club. . . . Bill has a couple of fingers missing from one hand but it doesn't affect his ball handling. . . . Guess who holds Chattanooga's all-time home run record? . . . None other than Larry Drake, who clouted 30 in 1946. . . . Wally Butts and Bear Bryant were the only two head football coaches to attend the recent Southeastern Conference basketball tournament. . . . Time was when the event was the gathering place for the gridiron fraternity's off-season bull session. . . .

Another Towns Don't be surprised if South Carolina announces a football game with the Army within a couple of years. . . . Bobby Towns, 11-year-old son of the famous Georgia hurdler, is quite an athlete himself. . . . He recently led the Athens YMCA Cubs to the State championship. . . . In addition, Bobby won just about every event in a junior track meet last Summer. . . . Georgia's 50-meter swimming pool, constructed by the Navy during the war, is considered one of the best in the country and the national intercollegiate meet may be held there within a few years. . . . Hialeah's 1950 meeting was one of the few horse meetings during the past year to show an increase in both attendance and mutual play. . . . Incidentally, the leading stable at the meet was Tom Gray's one-horse stable of Oil Capitol. . . . The Kentucky Derby favorite won a total of $54,350. . . . Chances are that Jim Barby, released outright by the Cracker, will sign with another Southern League team. . . . Atlanta Vice President Jasper Donaldson is rapidly recovering from an operation and is expected to join the club in Pensacola next week. . . .

Niagara, W. Kentucky Clash in 1st NIT Tilt

NEW YORK (AP)—Twelve do-or-die college basketball squads from the East, Far West, Midwest, South and Southwest start shooting for the thirteenth annual National Invitation tournament championship promptly at 2 p. m. (EST) today.

Putting first things first, here's how they'll line up in Madison Square Garden's two double-headers today:

AFTERNOON:
2:15—Western Kentucky (24-5) vs. Niagara (20-6).
3:45—University of San Francisco (19-6) vs. City College of New York (17-5).

NIGHT:
8:15—La Salle (20-3) vs. Arizona (26-4).
10:00—Long Island University (20-4) vs. Syracuse (17-8).

The four seeded teams, Bradley—voted the Nation's No. 1 team in the final Associated Press poll—Kentucky, St. John's, of Brooklyn, and Duquesne, won't see action until next week. The tournament finals will be next Saturday, March 18.

San Francisco's Dons, the surprise winners of the 1949 tournament and became the first Cinderella team in N. I. T. play, Utah came along to confound the experts and cop the 1947 tournament.

The Dons did it a year ago by beating Loyola, of Chicago, in a 48-47 title thriller.

Western Kentucky, one of the betting favorites although not seeded, is no no-comer to the N. I. T., having played in it four times. Western Kentucky was the victim of West Virginia in the 1942 finals, closest the Hilltoppers ever came to the title.

Niagara, making its first appearance in this tournament, has a tough assignment in the 1st tilt, the towering, fast-tapping, high-scoring Kentuckians. The Hilltoppers are led by their star center, 6-7 Bob Lavy, who has a 21.5 average on 622 points this year.

Cook, Grant To Lead Rival Teams In Eighth Annual 'G' Game Today

Butts Is Pleased With Spirit of Squad In Spring Drills; Eight on Injured List

ATHENS—The eighth annual University of Georgia intrasquad Spring football games, slated today at 2:30 p. m., is a contest in which many of the Bulldogs will win or lose first-string ratings for the 1950 season.

That's why the players get as excited over the game as do the students and alumni, who will assemble in Sanford Stadium to see a preview of Georgia's 1950 representatives on the gridiron. Students and faculty will be admitted free; general admission is $1.20.

The Red Shirts rate slight favorites over the Whites due to a heavier line and backfield and more experience. The Red's lineup of starters includes five seniors and six juniors. The Whites have only two seniors, seven juniors and two sophomores. The Red's line averages 203 pounds, their backfield 191. The Whites' line averages 197, their backfield 173. T-quarterbacks Mal Cook and Billy Grant will captain the Reds and Whites, respectively. The Reds have lost the last three games but led in the series, four games to three.

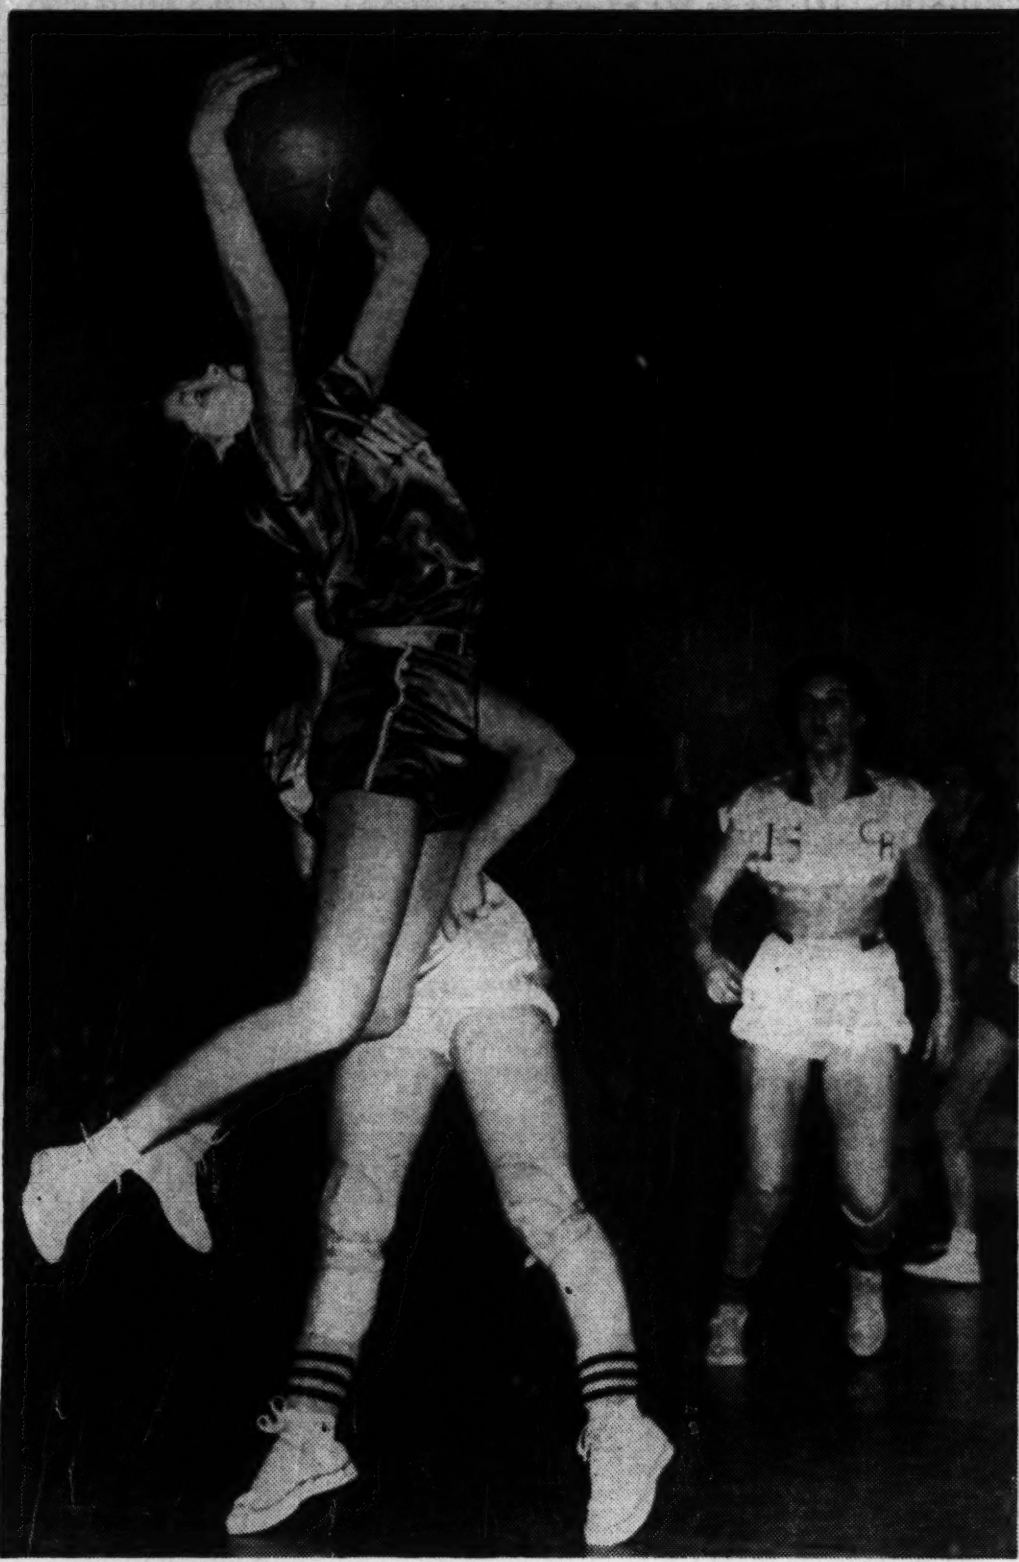

Injuries received in practice will keep eight Bulldogs on the sidelines. Left halfbacks Billy Mixon and Claude Hipps; right halfbacks Lauren Hargrove, Bob Durand and Gus Hlebovy; tackle Bill Walsh; guard Bob Greer and Center Ronald Williams.

Coach Wallace Butts, in summing up Georgia's five-and-a-half weeks of Spring work, says: "We will have a slightly faster team than last season, but still a little slow to be a championship contender in the Southeastern Conference. We are very weak at two positions. I'll not name them but it won't take the opposition long to detect them. There's a chance that some of our sophomores, as they gain experience, will strengthen one of these weaknesses. The coaching staff, however, is well satisfied with the spirit and hustle displayed in the Spring drills."

Cook County's unbeaten champions and the Canton Greenettes last night fired their way to convincing triumphs in the semifinals of the first annual State Class A girls' basketball tournament at the Brown High gym and tonight will meet head-on for the crown.

It was decided last night to shift the title game to the Roosevelt Gym, starting at 7:30 p. m., as a preliminary to the State Class A boys' finals between Valdosta and Summerville.

The Cook County sextet, from Adel, outdistanced Newton County to cop its twenty-eighth victory without defeat, winning, 45-34, despite a great 23-point performance by Newton's Janice McMichael. The Covington lassies fell to the steady shooting of Bitsie Wright, Jean O'Quinn and Pattie Sue Mc-

Bulldogs Leading in Swim Meet

Georgia's Bulldogs, seeking their first Southeastern Conference swimming title, held a narrow two-point lead over Georgia Tech as the eighth annual meet reached the halfway mark last night at the Jockey pool.

The Bulldogs copped the diving and 400-yard freestyle relay, final events of the night, to compile 39 points, while the Jackets breathed hot on their heels with 37. Florida, which has won the crown five times in eight years, was in challenging position with 36.

After winning the 1500 meter Thursday, the Gators annexed 50-yard freestyle and 220-yard freestyle last night to take a commanding lead. However, they wilted and ran into some tough luck, being disqualified after placing second in the 400 relay.

Low Brown, brilliant Gator ace, annexed the 100-yard freestyle for the third straight year in the first and Johnny Hiles captured the 150-yard backstroke. Bobby Prevatt breezed to an easy victory in the 220 freestyle and it looked as if the Gators were on the way. However, Tech's Tommy Towles, setting a new conference record of 2:31.9, breezed under the wire in the 200 breaststroke and then the Bulldogs took over.

Time trials are listed this afternoon at 2:30, with seven concluding events slated tonight.

Among the qualifiers were four South Georgia boys, all representing the University of Georgia: Neal Fendie, of Brunswick, and Jim Hardee, of Savannah, in the 220-yard freestyle; Bill Volk, of Brunswick, in the 200-yard breaststroke; and Horace Sasser, of Albany, defending champion in both low and high-board diving.

Carter and Knox Win on Mat Here

Nick Carter and Buddy Knox defeated Chief Bird Saunooke and Tom Mahoney in the feature tag match on last night's mat program at the C. K. Auditorium. The losers were disqualified for rough tactics after 21 minutes of grappling. Rebel Red Russell defeated Don McIntyre in 16 minutes in another top event.

In other matches, Red McIntyre and Bob Shipp drew in 20 minutes and the hooded Red Terror whipped Jack Ross in 12.

Summerville Topples Canton Five, 50 to 44

Valdosta Gains Finals by Ripping Fulton; Twin Bill Scheduled Tonight at Roosevelt

By JACK JACKSON

A red-hot band of Summerville Indians and a group of tournament veterans from Valdosta gained the final round of the State Class A basketball tournament last night at Roosevelt, the Redskins ousting favored Canton, 50-44, and the South Georgians blasting Fulton's Redbirds, 58-43.

The teams will clash tonight in the second half of a State championship twin-bill, also slated for Roosevelt. At 7:30, the Cook High girls meet Canton, and at 9 o'clock, Summerville battles Valdosta. Cook and Canton reached girls' finals last night at Brown.

Defending Champions Bow in Macon Meet

Ludowici Upsets Perry, 45-41; Nevils Eliminates Dasher

By BOB CHRISTIAN

CITY AUDITORIUM, MACON—Defending champions Perry High and Dasher Bible School, of Valdosta, fell by the wayside in the semifinals to set the stage for two new champions to be crowned tonight in the finals of the boys "B" and "C" basketball tournament.

Ludowici, the team that has been a surprise since tournament time rolled around in the First District, eliminated defending B champions Perry, 45-41, last night in one of the most hair-raising finishes of the tournament. The First District lads kicked in with five points in the final 12 seconds to get them their first crack at the coveted crown.

Dasher Bible School, Eighth District representative and defending champions in the C division, was knocked off in an afternoon overtime contest with Nevils. The First District champs bumped the champions, 40-36, and gained the right to meet Montezuma, runner-up in the State last year and appearing here for the fifth successive time, in the finals tonight.

In the B division, Ludowici takes on the powerful Irwinville quintet of the Eighth District. The Farmers, pushed for three quarters, rose up with a fourth quarter explosion to down Manchester, 62-44, in their semifinal game.

After a 9-9 deadlock in the first quarter, Perry led until four minutes and 20 seconds remained. With Jimmy Parker, collector of 23 points, tossing in a field goal and basket to tie the score at 38-38, Peyton added three and Perry led 41-38 with 12 seconds to go.

Robbie Gordon then came up from a scramble under the basket with the goal that pushed Ludowici out, front, 45-41. Parker's two baskets, both layups, were the clinchers.

Eric Staples, Coach of the Perry team that won the championship in 1947 and 1949, wasn't disappointed in his club's failure to again reach the finals. "I thought we played good ball but it's just one of those things."

Nevils, repeating from the First District, overcame a 13-2 deficit in detroning the Dasher quintet in an overtime. Failing to lead a single time in the regulation game, which ended, 34-34. Three quick Thomas Waters, LeWayne Anderson and Junior Tidwell assured the red-shirted lads from the First District of a victory.

LaWayne Anderson's 13 topped Nevils while Gary Colson had 11 for Dasher.

Statham, with 33-2 record in regular season play and two close victories here, barely missed their chance for a crack at the throne vacated by Dasher. After a ding-dong battle right into the waning seconds, the Wildcats, trailing 37-32, pulled within a point when Jimmy Perkins tossed in two baskets in the final minute but the time ran out.

Carl Peaster, Montezuma's All-State forward, led the scoring with 13 while Johnny Lyle tallied 10 for Statham.

Manchester proved to be surprisingly strong for the heralded Irwinville quintet, winner of 33 previous games. The Farmers, led by Center Edwin Reeves who scored 23 points, pushed out to a 27-20 advantage at halftime but it was a rough road.

The Blue Devils from the Fourth District tied the count in the third by changing a 34-24 Irwinville lead to 35-35 deadlock mainly through the efforts of Juby Shivers, who collected six of his 18 points in the four-minute spurt.

The Farmers, however, roared from a slim 37-35 margin at the end of the third quarter to win going away. Reeves, victim of four fouls and resting for almost eight minutes, got back in the line up for seven points in the fourth quarter pullaway. It was the third straight victory here of 20 or more points for Wallace Childs' quintet. Oneal Register, the mighty mite of a guard for the Farmers, had 11 points to go with Reeves' 24. High for Manchester was Shivers, one of the top individual performers in the tourney, with 18.

Garland Penholster's Indiana roared down the stretch to defeat a Canton team which came into this meet as the favorite. It was a see-saw battle for some 23 minutes, but the big red team poured it on early in the final period and at one time built its lead to as many as 13 points.

Sewell Cash, the lad who connected on better than half his regular season shots, turned in his second 21-point performance in as many tourney outings to pace the Indians, while rugged Herman Fletcher, who added 12 more and little Bobby Bush contributed 11. In addition, guards Bobby Nix and Joe Faye Dacus played remarkable floor games to make it a team conquest.

Marvin Satterfield, Canton's high-scoring forward, finished with 22 points to lead all scorers, but was silenced for 13 minutes of the second half during which time Summerville built up its commanding lead.

Canton led at the end of both the first and second scoring periods, but in the third, the score was tied four times and the lead changed hands even more often. Satterfield collected 12 points in the first half, while Cash garnered nine of his.

The see-saw continued into the third period and the score was tied one-half time, the score was a 28-28 ball game. Then Fletcher hit a bucket and Summerville was ahead for good. Carl Denny's free throw made it 30-28, but Fletcher again took over, dumping in two quick baskets which were followed by two free throws and the Indians led, 36-29, as they moved into the final period.

With three to go, it was 47-34 Summerville. In that final three minutes, Satterfield came to life and added 10 points to his total and slice the margin to the final six points.

Valdosta's victory came after a rather ragged game. The Wildcats, who reached the State Class B finals in 1947, 1948 and 1949, were led by the same trio which won the title last year. Valdosta's George Wallace tallied 16, Stan Allen 15 and Archie Griffin 14.

Carl Hartness, who fouled out midway of the fourth period, led Fulton with 13, while Harry Goss, turning in another top showing, added 10 points to his total and led a workmanlike job under the baskets and limited the big Griffin to four field goals.

Fulton led a 4-3 then fell back to stay. However, the Wildcats weren't consistent and the margin ranged from as high as eleven to as low as three until midway of the third period. Then Dosta began to pull away, reaching its biggest lead just before the final whistle at 58-39.

The final fray, tonight, should be one of the best. Incidentally, Summerville hasn't yet substituted in two games, while Valdosta's regulars went the route against Newman and went all but a couple of minutes against Fulton.

Sarazen Recalls Some Costly Shots

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla.—Stocky Gene Sarazen was reminiscing a trifle. He had 30 years of play to cover—28 years since he won his first U. S. Open title at Skokie.

"It's tough to win a championship," Gene said. "Very tough. Any time you make a mistake you can think—That did it. That beat me." For example, I can recall three shots that definitely cost me three Opens. They were not hard shots. They were fairly easy ones.

"What was your biggest mistake?" asked.

"It was at Merion, Pa. back around 1934," Gene replied. "I was hot after Olin Dutra, who was still leading by a stroke. Before this I had dropped two strokes to par by poor midiron play, so I plunked my midiron into the bag for good.

"But on the last nine there is a drive-and-pitch hole—a simple four. You can reach the green with a drive and a niblick. I decided here to play safe. I'll never know why but when I reached into my bag I came out with that midiron. I hated so. I played it, hooked my safety iron shot into a brook and wound up with a seven. It was the softest par on the fine Merion course. I was beaten by one stroke. A five there would have given me first money.

"Then there was the British Open at St. Andrews in 1928. I was playing extremely well until I hit the long 14th. I was in the rough on my drive, but had an easy par five in sight. My caddy, a great old man, begged me to play safe with a mashie. I took out my wooden club, missed two shots and finished with a seven. That was poor headwork again—just as it was when I played the midiron I hated so.

Trap Ruins Him "Another occasion was in the 1927 Open at Oakmont. I had the Open won. But I wanted to open the gap on the last hole, or one of the last holes. The pin was located just beyond a deep trap. I had only a short pitch, but in place of playing safely, well over the trap for an easy four, I cut the ball too sharply and it lacked a foot of carrying. There I was, sunk against the bottom edge of the trap where it took me three to get out. Another seven and again I was beaten by a stroke.

"No one knows the feeling of blowing a championship on one shot until he has done it. The nerve strain is terrific in these championships—especially when you are in the running and you know just one mistake may be the one that blocks the road. I've known able-bodied golfers to take a week or 10 days after a tournament to recover their shattered nerves."

The Big Sufferer "I believe it was the strain of Bobby Jones' great run from 1922 through 1930 that made him give up golf," Gene continued. "It took him seven years to win a title. That was suffering enough, with the game he had. But from 1922 through 1930 he ran 1-2 in the U. S. Open every year except one. He never had a resting spot as many of us did, well out of it.

"I recall in at Inwood, Bobby was leading Bobby Cruickshank by four strokes going to the final hole. What happened? Jones took a seven and Cruickshank got a birdie three. Jones took five to down a putt from just off the green. Then he almost holed a three on the same hole, after a sleepless night. That seven came at him all night long.

"Again, in 1929, at Winged Foot, Bob was leading Al Espinosa by six holes with six holes to go. Yet Bob needed a 12-foot tricky putt to the Espinosa, forcing another play-off. Two terrific breaks almost wrecked him.

"Year after year, Bob had to battle his way against the field. And don't let anyone tell you it wasn't a great field—Hagen, Barnes, Armour, Cooper, MacFarlane, Mac Smith, Horton Smith, Quimet, Chick Evans, and many more. He was tied by Johnny Farrell, Willie MacFarlane, Al Espinosa and Bobby Cruickshank with two and lost two strokes. Farrell finished the last four holes four under par, both morning and afternoon, to beat Jones by one stroke.

Snead, Hogan Faltered "Sam Snead has waded into enough woe and trouble to make him cut three throats, if he had three. Ben Hogan blows a Masters and an Open tournament in succession by missing two 20-inch putts on the final greens. Those things leave scars. I know in certain spots I used to feel I was in a dungeon and couldn't get out. I'd want to beat my head against the wall—or shoot myself.

"These PGA tournaments are tough tests. They mean a lot financially when you figure what it costs. But an Open is something else. I'm playing golf today for fun. I quit suffering many years back. I don't walk the floor at night and get up feeling like an old man.

"There'll be no pro having any fun at Merion next June. All players with any chance will be suffering from the first day to the last. I think Hagen suffered less and worried less than anyone else. He either had no nerves or he had them under control. A missed shot meant nothing to him. I saw him miss 17 shots in one round and finish with a 69. He always expected to miss a lot of shots.

"Sure, I'll take another shot at another Open. I only hope they make it a four-day show. Golfers are too slow today to play 36 holes."

Country Brown Hitting Better Than in Past Spring Workouts

Frosty Kennedy, Charlie Weathers on Sick List; LaSalle May Face Pettit in Exhibition Tilt

By F. M. WILLIAMS
Constitution Sports Writer

PENSACOLA, Fla.—Ralph (Country) Brown, the bean pole from Summerville who led the 1949 Crackers at the plate in spite of the fact he had his worst year in professional baseball, is a worried man.

Manager Dixie Walker is glad of it.

You see, "Country" is upset because he is hitting the ball so well this early in Spring training, but it doesn't bother Dixie to see the guy walk up there and hit those line drives so familiar to fans who watched him after joining the Crackers in June of 1948.

Brown led the Florida International League in hitting his first year out and came up to Augusta to top the Sally loop his second season.

When the New York Yankees, with whom he signed a contract after a tenure in the Army, sent him to Binghamton in 1948 with orders to move from the outfield to first base, "Country" packed his bag and came to Summerville. Pres. Earl Mann bought him from the Yanks for a fancy price, but it was a wise investment.

Brown was hitting more than 360 when he collided with Mickey Rutner at third base about a month before the '48 season was over. He never recovered from the injury, although he got in as a pinch hitter and finally finished up the last week or so in the outfield. His average dropped to a respectable .338.

He never really got going last season, although he hit .312 and led the league in stolen bases. He admits today if he couldn't have bunted, he wouldn't have been close to the .300 mark at the plate. "I feel better right now than at any time last season and I believe I'm going to have a great year," Brown said during a batting practice drill.

"Only thing that bothers me is the fact I've never been able to meet the ball as well as I am now during the first week of Spring practice," he added, but you could tell he was pretty pleased about it, not really worried as he would have his audience believe.

Brown is hustling like a first year rookie.

He can still fly around the base paths and he can still drag that runt, just in case he ever gets to the point where he really needs a base hit.

"Being able to bunt helps a little more ways than many players realize," Ralph pointed out. "Infielders can play you too deep if you can bunt and when they shorten up, lots of grounder balls get through for hits that would have been fielded ordinarily."

That's something Manager Walker thoroughly agrees with his centerfielder. That's why he spends a great deal of time trying to perfect the bunting technique of every man on the team.

One of the highlights of Spring practice may take place in New Orleans March 28 when the Crackers meet the Pelicans in an exhibition tilt. Manager Walker has indicated that he'll start Southpaw Larry LaSalle, outstanding Cracker rookie who hails from New Orleans, while the Pels are expected to counter with Paul Pettit, $100,000 bonus hurler.

SHORT NOTES—"Bo" Dempsey, the big outfielder who hit .345 for Lubbock, Texas, last year, is perhaps the most versatile man in camp. "Bo," a Russell High School (East Point) graduate, not only wields a mean baseball bat, but he is an accomplished golfer . . . and on top of that, he increased his income at Lubbock last year with a 15-minute singing program three times a week on one of the local stations. . . . The guy gives out with a beautiful baritone.

Dempsey, incidentally, didn't play baseball in high school but did a pretty good job of performing on the gridiron. . . . "Frosty" Kennedy, the 411-hitting outfielder from Riverside, Cal., has a sore arm and it has Cracker officials really worried. . . . seems the youngster was put in to pitch a game late last season and injured his throwing wing. . . . Pres. Earl Mann, who checked in last night, immediately ordered a thorough examination by a local physician when Manager Walker informed him of the injury.

Charlie Weathers joined Kennedy and Art Fowler on the sick or injured list. . . . Charlie has to take off midway of yesterday's practice because of an upset stomach. . . . He got back late in the season, but he too was ordered to the doctor afterwards. . . . Fowler is expected to be back in uniform today after resting 24 hours to

Attendants Wear Green At Lang-Allen Wedding

With her attendants wearing lettuce green tissue taffeta, offset with rose and pink camellias, Miss Joanne Lang became the bride of Dixon MacRae Allen at a brilliant ceremony solemnized last evening at the Peachtree Christian Church, with the pastor, Dr. Robert W. Burns, officiating.

The bride is the blonde daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ray Charles Lang, and one of the most beautiful members of Atlanta society. She was married in an exquisite gown of ivory satin, designed with a marquise yoke and a bertha of Alencon lace. Her veil, of French illusion fell from a crown of Alencon lace, and was caught at intervals with small clusters of orange blossoms. The bride carried a bouquet of white orchids, white lilacs and valley lilies, caught with a French maline bow.

Mr. Lang gave his daughter in marriage, and the groom's brother, Scott W. Allen, Jr., was best man.

The groom's sister, Mrs. Gervis G. Morrison, was matron of honor, and the bridesmaids included Miss May Haverly, Miss Margaret Hicks, of Copper Hill, Tenn.; Miss Mary Lee Higgins, Miss Mary Garner, Miss Mary Ann Robinson, Mrs. Calvin R. Allen, Mrs. Scott W. Allen, Jr., and Mrs. Jack T. Sampson.

Their gowns were fashioned with bustle backs, and they wore hats of illusion in lettuce green. Their bouquets, shading from deep rose to pale pink, formed a most effective contrast.

Calvin R. Allen, Frank L. Conner, Cmdr. M. A. Griffin, of Annapolis, Md.; Aben E. Johnson, of Hastings, Mich.; Samuel E. McConnell, III, Gervis G. Morrison, Robert H. Scott, Jr., and Dixon R. Head, of Chicago, served as usher-groomsman.

Following the ceremony, the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Lang, entertained at an elaborate reception at the Piedmont Driving Club. The groom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Scott W. Allen, Miss Frances King and Miss Catherine Warren assisted in entertaining. Miss Bess Lundeen and Miss Jeannette Willcox kept the bride's book.

Mr. Allen and his bride left for New York from where they will sail for a honeymoon in Bermuda. They will reside in Atlanta, where the former is associated with the Capitol Tobacco Company.

Miss Keen Weds Wilson Denton

MRS. W. J. DENTON

Rev. and Mrs. Euthan E. Keen, of Cartersville, announce the marriage of their daughter, Miss Evelyn Ellen Keen, to Wilson J. Denton, of Atlanta, formerly of Nashville, Tenn., which took place last evening at the home of Rev. and Mrs. Keen in Cartersville, the father of the bride officiating.

Mrs. M. L. Conner, of Nashville, Tenn., formerly of Atlanta, was matron of honor, and M. L. Conner was best man. The candles were lighted by Mrs. W. E. Allen, sister of the bride, and Miss Wyllene Wilson.

Given in marriage by her cousin, Raymond Keen, of Lyons, the bride wore silver gray satin.

Mrs. Denton attended Mercer University and Bessie Tift College and is now connected with the Veterans Administration.

Mr. Denton, son of Mr. and Mrs. L. M. Denton, of Franklin, Tenn., received his education at Middle Tennessee State Teachers College and Peabody College. He is affiliated with Kraft Foods Company.

A reception for the out-of-town guests and relatives was given by the bride's parents.

A Salutory Conviction

The conviction at Rome of Dade County Sheriff John W. Lynch and Deputy William Hartline on a charge of turning seven Negroes over to a Ku Klux Klan mob for flogging ought to have a salutary effect upon other Georgia peace officers who are inclined to go along with the Klan.

Strength of the Klan, which fortunately is diminishing daily, has been the co-operation it received from officers sworn to uphold the law. Georgia laws, if enforced, would be just as effective in curbing mob violence as Federal laws. It is unfortunate that conviction of the Dade Sheriff and his deputy had to be obtained in a Federal court. But the jury that passed judgment was made up of Georgians, friends and neighbors, it might be said, of those who were convicted. That is, to us, proof that conviction in such cases can be had equally as well in Georgia courts as in Federal courts if only our Georgia enforcement officers and agencies put forth the necessary effort.

Every case of this kind that has to go to Federal courts for want of local action gives further ammunition to the extremists in Congress who want to hamstring the South, and win votes in their own Northern districts, by imposing ridiculous police state methods upon us.

Georgia, and the South, could clean their own house if they would. We have, in fact, been crying that we are doing just that. But we'd better hustle about and give some evidence of it before our time runs out.

Only yesterday Editor Milton Beckerman of The Claxton Enterprise told of firing a shot at a Klan automobile caravan attempting to invade his premises to intimidate him. Mr. Beckerman has denounced the Klan in his weekly newspaper. He said there have been numerous beatings of whites and Negroes in the Claxton area recently.

In their usual brave manner, the 100 or more Klansmen in the caravan fled when the Editor fired his warning shot.

It is unfortunate that he didn't aim more carefully.

Ham and Eggs and Georgia

For 35 years the annual Ham and Egg Show at Fort Valley State College has been an inspiration to Georgia farmers, particularly to Negro farmers. It was the spark that touched off similar shows in other parts of the State.

Conclusion of the 1950 show yesterday proved that the genius and purpose that has made it an attraction of note through the years has not been lost, but rather, expanded.

With Government controls limiting the acreage that can be devoted to many so-called cash crops, it is more important than ever that Georgia farmers turn to "ham and eggs" and beef cattle to maintain or increase their incomes. The Ham and Egg Show does an admirable job of encouraging this shift and of demonstrating its money value.

Those who directed the show, and especially County Agent R. T. Church, are to be congratulated for a job well done.

The Camps Do It Again

The Camps—Ernest and his son Sanders—have again sparked the progressive farm program in Walton County by issuing their annual mammoth edition of The Walton Tribune which reviews the agricultural history of the county and outlines the program for 1950 crops.

This program calls for well-balanced, diversified farm production which any farmer may enter without being "cramped" as to crops. It is designed to be the most beneficial to the farmers and the county generally.

The Camps have been sponsoring the farm program for several years, in co-operation with the Farm and Home Agents and other agricultural agencies in the county.

Results of the program are also reported in another big edition of The Tribune in the Fall after all crop reports are in.

This co-operation between these editors and the farm interests is highly commendable. It is a fine thing for Walton County and for Georgia.

STEWART ALSOP

Crippling Our Defense Forces

WASHINGTON—For every pound of fat cut out of service overheads, Secretary of Defense Louis Johnson has sliced away two pounds of combat muscle. This estimate is based on an expert analysis of Johnson's economy report, prepared for the House Armed Services Committee. Yet Johnson continues to claim that he is only eliminating "fancy trimmings"—and because of the technique he uses to confuse the public, a good many people continue to believe him.

A useful example of this Johnsonian confidence trick is his recent official statement that "Navy strength has been increased by three attack carriers, three carrier air groups, one cruiser and one battleship in reduced commission." The ordinary newspaper reader—and some who should know better—assumes that because the Secretary of Defense says so, the Navy must be getting stronger. The truth is the exact opposite.

Navy strength has in fact been decreased, on the basis of actual strength-in-being in 1949, by one heavy carrier, five cruisers, and one battleship reduced from combat to training status. And aside from these categories specifically named by Johnson, Navy strength had been whittled away all along the line—by 30 patrol groups to 20, from 14 attack groups to nine, from 23 Marine fighter squadrons to 12, from 155 destroyers to 140, and so on indefinitely.

The trick which Johnson uses to convey an impression which is the precise opposite of the truth is a very simple one. Consider the sentence about increasing Navy strength quoted above. This is based on rough and inflated estimates made "by the military departments on Aug. 1" of the combat reductions which the Johnsonian economies would enforce. Later estimates have shown that the Johnson program would require the retirement of one heavy cruiser instead of the four in the first rough estimate, and of five instead of six cruisers; and that it would be possible to maintain the battleship Missouri as a training ship, instead of decommissioning her entirely.

According to his standards, this permits Johnson to boast that "Navy strength is being increased" when the plain, demonstrable fact is that Naval combat power is being sharply, perhaps irreparably, reduced. This reduction is being made, moreover, even while every intelligence source indicates that the Soviet Union is making a massive effort, on a wartime scale, to produce the new Schnorkel submarines in great quantities; and even while the Caribbean maneuvers are demonstrating how desperate is the threat of the Schnorkels to Naval control of essential sea lanes.

If Johnson were saving the country from imminent economic catastrophe by his economies, there might be some excuse for this kind of horrifying risk. Yet Johnson is not even really saving very much money. According to the expert analysis of Johnson's economies referred to above, there have been $207,000,000 of perfectly genuine savings which did not affect the combat strength. Another sum of $134,000,000 reflects procurement price reductions in no way affected by the Johnson program. $814,000,000 of claimed savings reflects a mixture of real savings and reductions in combat strength—probably about half of each.

Straight, unquestioned reductions in American combat strength account for $1,171,000,000, when the frozen appropriation for aircraft procurement is added to other combat reductions. This works out at a ratio of one pound of fat to very nearly two pounds of combat muscle.

Moreover, even such economies as have been made are wasteful and unwise. Naval aircraft procurement, for example, has been held to a level just sufficient for "replacing attrition." According to the highest Navy authorities, this scale of replacement is wholly insufficient to prevent obsolescence. This means that a few years from now the United States will suddenly find itself with an obsolete Naval air arm. Then, of course (if they have not already led to disaster) the Johnsonian economies will come home to roost. The country will be asked to buy itself a new Naval air arm—indefinitely the most costly, and the most dangerous, way to rearm.

Everywhere the pattern repeats itself. As "Life" magazine has pointed out, "The Navy's vast mothball fleet is going to rust and ruin although a few million dollars a year would keep up all the first-wave ships that would be needed in the first 12 months of war." Johnson sees great store by his "businesslike" management of American defense. Yet any businessman who attempted to "economize" by this kind of frittering away of capital would have a brief and inglorious business career.

No sensible man doubts the overheads of the services were badly swollen, or that in fact these overheads have been usefully reduced. But the price of these comparatively minor savings, under the Johnsonian program, has been a sharp reduction in American fighting strength. This weakening of American power in the year 1950 seems downright insane. But it is worse than insane to pretend, as Johnson has consistently pretended, that America is growing stronger when America is in fact growing weaker. This sort of deception is not only irresponsible, it carries within it the seeds of outright disaster for the United States.

RALPH MCGILL

Progress On Aid to Education

Ralph McGill is in Palestine. In his absence, members of the National House of Representatives will write guest columns. Today's is by Rep. John S. Wood, of the Ninth District.

Prospects are substantial for favorable House action on a Federal Aid to Education Bill during the current session of Congress. The House Committee on Education and Labor, of which I am a member, has for more than a month been considering pending bills in this area.

Need for Federal aid to provide better schooling for the nation's children is clear and compelling. The U. S. Census Bureau has enumerated 4,000,000 children of school age who are not enrolled in school. There are several million who are attending substandard schools. Twenty times as many teachers today hold substandard certificates as in 1940. Enrollments are increasing at a rate of about 750,000 per year. Demands for teachers, especially in our elementary schools, greatly exceeds the supply.

And these conditions are not typical of the South alone. They are widespread. The contrast between good schools and unsatisfactory schools is sharpest between urban and rural communities, between States basically agricultural in their economy and others that are highly industrialized.

Ability to Pay Wealth and children are not distributed uniformly in the nation. Southern States are at a great disadvantage in providing the kind of schools our children need and the general welfare requires. In 1947, one-fourth of the nation's population resided in 12 cotton-producing States. These States had one-third of the nation's children, one-eighth of the nation's wealth, but produced only one-sixth of the nation's school income although these States on the average spent a higher percentage of the total income of all citizens for their public schools than did the great industrial States of the North and East.

In 1947, for example, New Jersey spent $1.74 for each $100 of income earned by its citizens for public schools. Georgia spent $1.85. But the lesser New Jersey effort produced $51 for current school purposes per child in average daily attendance. Georgia's greater effort produced only $81 for each Georgia child. The children of Georgia do not enjoy comparable schooling with that afforded the children of New Jersey. The difference in fact is very great, but not as great as between New Jersey and some other States.

Responsibility Our public schools are a first line of defense against all ideologies which would do violence to the American way of life. Today we are spending billions of dollars abroad for the alleged purposes of building defenses for freedom and a lasting peace. Some of our money is finding its way into educational systems in many other countries of the world. Should we do less for our own?

As Chairman of the House Un-American Activities Committee I know the dangers that confront us today. To save the rest of the world, or as much of it as possible, from the control of political and economical systems unfriendly to the ways of free men is not enough. Our domestic defenses must be shored up and made impregnable. To do less is to be foolish. The control of educational policy which the United States is seeking to support across Europe and Asia will not be held if we are derelict in providing for the proper education of our own youth in every part of our country.

To a limited degree this is a Federal responsibility because many of the States cannot do the job alone. We must find a way to bring the resources of the Federal Government to bear in solving this problem.

Control The method sought by the House Committee on Education and Labor to assure better schools is to write Federal aid into law but provide for its administration by the States and their localities. The major issue in preparing legislation is, therefore, the presentation of State and local control.

As for State control, the House Committee on Education and Labor will be vigorously resisted. I shall myself work hard for the passage of any measure which guarantees continued State control of our public schools. I shall resist with every power at my command any bill which would authorize Federal encroachment upon the existing rights and powers of the States to determine their own educational policies.

There must of course be fiscal safeguard as in the case of the Land-Grant College Act. Federal funds must be spent for the purpose for which they will be appropriated. There should be State auditing and a simple system of State-reporting to the Congress.

These safeguards must be set up. They should be. But there must be no Federal interference in basic school policies. Our experience with the Land-Grant College Act shows the way in which Federal aid under State control can be provided.

The bill around which Committee consideration has been assembled in recent weeks is S. 246, which passed the Senate last May by the overwhelming vote of 58 to 15. Its provisions are essentially the provisions of the bill—HR 1850—which I introduced in the House of Representatives on Jan. 25, 1949.

Reduced to simplest terms, these bills explicitly prohibit Federal control of school policies; allocate funds to the States on an objective formula leaving no discretion to any Federal agency or officer in fixing amounts; deposit the funds with the State Treasurer; authorize the State educational agency to requisition such funds for current school purposes; and merge the funds with regular State school funds to be expended according to the same State laws that control the expenditure of State and local school tax dollars.

These are States-rights bills. While this legislation may be amended by the committee, the States-rights principle must and will be respected. Should conflicts arise, the States will have recourse to the courts.

I am myself dedicated to the hope that a new day is near for millions of our children who are shamefully handicapped in the field of education. Our happiness and security as a nation can permanently be assured only as we build a sound foundation for them in the lives of our youth.

McCarthy Called To Account

WASHINGTON—To understand and assess properly the technique being used by Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy, Republican, Wisconsin, in his current crusade against alleged "subversives" in the State Department, you have to recognize certain traits of our people and consider the ordeal we have been through in recent years.

Our people are "good" and "nature," "joiners" and also what is sometimes called "To-goodness." They are gregarious. They love to get together in groups, organizations and crowds. They join up for plain fun and fellowship, and they join up to do good.

During the terrible depression of the early thirties, when so many people were down on their luck and desperate, and during the era of reform thereafter to correct things in our society that contributed to depressions, people of good intentions joined all sorts of organizations that were represented as designed to promote this and that project to help folks—and lots of them did help. These committees for this and that often had high-sounding names.

'Helpers' More sprang up during the war, committees to help England, France, Russia, China, and so on. Earnest and sincere people, some of them outstanding in public and private life, joined social welfare and war aid organizations or permitted use of their names.

It developed later that Communists saw a fertile field here. Some of them moved into such organizations and, in some cases, virtually took them over, so that they became what are now called "Communist fronts." When that tactic became apparent, many people quickly quit them cold. Since then, some of these organizations have been listed as subversive by the Justice Department.

Now for Sen. McCarthy. Exploiting this "joiner" and "do-good" complex of the depression and war periods, he is digging back into that era and blithely condemning people who joined such organizations as "subversives" and "Communists" and labeling them virtual criminals.

His crusade is recognized as part of the general over-all strategy of certain interests to go beyond proved "Communists" to the next step—and a dangerous one for our liberties—of creating "subversives" wholesale by flimsy fiat through "guilt by association," as it is called. The object is to defeat social reform measures by throwing suspicion, in another guilt-by-association transference, on all progressive groups and organizations.

Weakness The essential weakness of the Wisconsin Senator's campaign is that it seeks to make a crime out of a basically fine instinct in our people, if sometimes misguided, and also seems to make dopes and dupes out of innocent "joiners," and no American likes to be so regarded. Nor, most of all, do decent Americans like to be pilloried and crucified for no reason except political capital for an irresponsible politician.

The Democrats on the Subcommittee are literally making him sweat and squirm. Tediously they are taking him, almost word by word, through every vague insinuation that he has made, and demanding that he come through with proof. He is getting a dose of the sort of treatment that others who have suffered from such accusations as he is making got from the Un-American Activities Committee. The roles are reversed.

It is a healthy sign. For the first time a purveyor of loose charges about people being "subversive" and "Communists" is being called to account—and by a jury of his own peers.

Something Fishy About It

JACK TARVER

GSCW Changed--In Many Ways

MILLEDGEVILLE—I spent last night in the Governor's Mansion, something I never figured to do, most especially during a Talmadge administration.

Hold your fire, Melvin, the Governor's Mansion I'm referring to is the old one here in Milledgeville and not the Ansley Park edifice where the Christmas decorations are stored in the off-season. And my host was not Herman, but Dr. Guy Wells, who as President of GSCW, has lived in the Milledgeville Mansion for 16 years now, a considerably longer tenure than had any of his political predecessors.

It was my first visit to GSCW in a good many years and the changes are impressive. The girls no longer wear bloomers and middie blouses, for one thing, and Dr. Wells has done a spectacular job of improving the plant for another. This latter has had to be accomplished with a maximum of ingenuity and a minimum of money. Faced with a flood of returning GIs who have necessitated increased facilities at its all-male and co-ed colleges, the State has not been able in recent years to provide adequately for its only all-girl school.

But GSCW has continued to do an outstanding job academically. The Strayer report recently re-emphasized this fact by citing the high caliber of the scholarship here and specifically recommending that GSCW be authorized to offer the master's degree, an advancement for which it already has the faculty to qualify.

GSCW's enrollment has dropped to approximately 900 students as the trend to co-education has continued. Authorization of graduate work here would undoubtedly attract a great many students who are now leaving the State for their master's degree. And, inasmuch as it is one of those rare opportunities in the educational field, namely one that can be taken advantage of without additional expenditure, it is felt the Board of Regents will not delay in following the Strayer recommendation.

Personally, I'd like to see graduate work authorized. It distressed me considerably to see how young the girls are now in comparison to the days when I used to hitchhike over from Mercer to sit in the well-chaperoned parlors of a Sunday evening.

They've changed in other ways, too.

They used to smile at me.

Now they only laugh.

'Hour of Sharing'

Editor Constitution: A united Christian enterprise of significant proportions is being undertaken as the evangelical churches in America prepare for "One Great Hour of Sharing" on March 12.

Everyone who cares about peace in our world can have a part in this urgent job. We cannot leave the task of relief and reconstruction abroad to our Government agencies. They are important and valuable, but they cannot do the entire job, relieving us of personal responsibility as Christians. Political agencies cannot revitalize the spiritual life of any nation—that task belongs to our spiritual agencies, i. e., to our churches. The funds provided through "One Great Hour of Sharing" will enable the Protestant churches to carry on this work of relief and reconstruction among refugees, young people and churches where war wrought its havoc.

Horse Operas Are Better

Editor Constitution: The Ingrid Bergman picture, "Stromboli," is not having such a glorious triumph at the box offices throughout the country. I would not blame Bergman's rather shaky report card on department.

Rossolini's alleged genius turned out to be just another Grade B picture. Bergman's acting is as fine as it ever was—all she needs is a good story. I'd rather see a good cowboy picture with my 65 cents.

Brannan Plan

Editor Constitution: The editorial, "The Brannan Plan is Deceptive," strikes me as being the truth. Yet you recently stated that the Brannan Plan would save money on the "potato" deal and the public would buy spuds at a penny a pound. In your column you conveniently ignore the fact that there would be a whole of subsidy in spuds at a penny a pound if the farmer got parity which the Brannan Plan promises. I don't have the figures but am certain it would be more costly than the present supports which you deplore and which Brannan is doing his best to make unpopular by a sorry job of administration.

It is a fact that the farmer is the lowest paid citizen in America on an hourly basis. It is also a fact that the farmer receives less subsidy than labor or industry. United States Steel saved $45,000,000 on one plant they bought from the Government. Who paid the $45,000,000? One farmer gets $500,000 for potatoes and it makes every newspaper in the country. I guess it is news because it is unusual for a farmer to make such money. I notice in the same issue of The Atlanta Constitution that the coal miners only make $2.74 per hour worked. No wonder they are on strike. I recommend that they just keep striking and get a job on the farm which pays the decent wage ranging from about 35 cents per hour to a maximum of 75 cents, the majority receiving the first amount. I suggest that we take off all subsidies and let the best man win, but I don't suggest that we just take the subsidy off the farmers and continue to subsidize every other group. With the Government going continually in debt we are going to wake up some morning and find we have subsidized ourselves to bankruptcy.

A. M. BENNETT.

Born Again Believer

Editor Constitution: In regard to your discussion on "Man Seeks a New Pattern." As for man seeking a new pattern, it isn't the born-again-believers who are seeking a new pattern. They have found their pattern when they accepted Christ as their personal Savior. As for the religious books, when you eat a meal to satisfy your hunger you don't stop eating do you? Because you aren't hungry then you don't quit eating altogether. Well, so it is with a real Christian. He goes back after he has been saved for spiritual blessings and reads spiritual books and literature to feed his hungry soul. God said, "Study to shew thyself approved unto God a workman that needeth not to be ashamed rightly dividing the Word of truth."—2 Timothy 2:15.

No Bonus

Editor Constitution: I have recently read several letters, against and for the Veterans' Bonus Bill the recent Legislature enacted subject to primary vote.

Being a veteran of four years, I personally feel that as far as being obligated, I am due nothing, and I believe that all the veterans feel in this manner, insofar as obligation is concerned. Yes, I was in the Pacific for quite a spell.

I do think that should the people of the State of Georgia feel that they would like to compensate the veteran with a bonus, the feeling should not be to compensate them for the time they lost, but only for the job well done.

A bonus at this time would not mean that a lot of veterans would be lifted from the morass of want or need, but would only favor them with a check which in 80 percent of the cases will go toward something that will again place them in debt, such as autos, television sets, jewelry, etc. There is no way a couple of hundred dollars will change anyone's life.

The veteran should bear in mind that while our State is in a financial condition that a bonus would mean a great increase in taxes, he no doubt would pay more in taxes over a period than he actually would realize from a bonus, and should let this govern his vote at the polls.

I agree that whether overseas, or in the States, the amount given as a bonus should not be a guide toward worthiness of the party to receive the bonus.

W. FRIEDMAN.

Welitch To Star In Aida This P. M.

By RITA VAN FELT

Ljuba Welitch will be the principal singer when Verdi's beautiful opera, Aida, comes to WCON-ABC as a Metropolitan matinee presentation this afternoon beginning at 2 o'clock.

The fiery Bulgarian soprano will be joined by Ramon Vinay, noted Chilean tenor, as "Rhadames," and Robert Merrill as "Amonasro."

First produced in 1871 at Cairo, Egypt, "Aida" was written for dedication ceremonies at the opening of the Suez Canal. Exalting the past grandeur of Egypt, the opera's plot grew out of a suggestion by the famous French Egyptologist, Mariette Bey, who had discovered ancient evidence there of the burial of living persons.

Home Decoration

Like to know what a new combination of colors can do to revive the family living room? Betty Moore, noted interior decorator of the WGST-MBS Your Home Beautiful, will describe a fascinating color scheme (guaranteed to keep the family at home just to admire the scenery) when that helpful program comes to the air at 11 this a. m.

Symphony

Toscanini will conduct the NBC Symphony in the "Symphony No. 40" by Mozart, Schubert's "Unfinished Symphony," and Smetana's "The Moldau," over WSB at 6:30 this afternoon.

Musical Interview

WCON's "femme-tator," Charlotte Brown, will interview musician-composer Hugh Haddon at 5:30 p. m. at which time he will tell about his thirteenth Annual Young Peoples Concert slated for Sunday afternoon at the Women's Club. He also will demonstrate parts of his program, telling something about the suite he has just written especially for this occasion.

Little Orley

Les Henriksen's habit of playing "Little Orley" records on his Saturday morning kid's program is gaining in popularity. Seems the youngsters love that fictitious little character almost as much as they do Uncle Les. Today's recorded episode, which will be played at approximately 9:30 on WCON (right after the Breakfast on Peachtree special

Exhibition Games

Beginning this afternoon at 1:45 and continuing every day at that time for the duration of the major league exhibition series, station WGLS will broadcast those games through the Liberty Broadcasting Company.

Aidmore Breakfast

If you, like the rest of us, missed Tony Hanson, who was slated to whistle on the Original Amateur Hour Thursday night, you may hear him do his stuff on the Breakfast on Peachtree special Aidmore program over WCON this a. m. at 8:30. Though Tony's number was "scratched" due to lack of time Thursday, he took it like a real trouper and will make up for things this morning.

TV Talk

When Kirk Douglas comes to the TV screen as tonight's guest on the Ken Murray Show over WAGA-TV at 8, he will enact a tense moment from the motion picture hit, "Champion," in which he soared to instantaneously stardom. Actress Arlene Whelan will co-star.

Oscar Levant will join the panel of experts on the WSB-TV "Who Said That" program at 9:10 tonight. Other guests will include Elsie Maxwell and Herbert Bayard Swope. The timely book, "The Coming Defeat of Communism," by James Burnham, will be discussed on the WSB-TV "Author Meets the Critics" program slated for your screen at 9:40.

Glenn Davis To Try Radio, TV, Movies

HOLLYWOOD—(AP)—Glenn Davis, "Mr. Outside," of the Davis-Doyle Blanchard football duo at West Point, is going to try his hand at radio, television and the movies, his father, Ralph Davis, said yesterday.

Davis, obtaining his release from the Army, is going to concentrate on football and is expected to sign probably next week with the Los Angeles Rams of the National Pro League, but in his spare time he intends to keep busy—and keep the money coming in.

Davis has given General Artists Corp. the power to negotiate contracts for him in the movies and in radio and television. He has been approached for his services in all three fields. He and Blanchard appeared in one movie, "The Spirit of West Point," produced by Harry Jo Brown and Charles Rogers, and he has done some sports announcing.

Red Cross Drive

SPARTA—The Rev. William C. Corley, Red Cross Roll Call Chairman for the Hancock County fund drive, reports progress although solicitation has just begun. Chairman Corley expects to complete the drive this month. School children will make their annual contribution to the drive and they usually do a good job.

ACTUAL START APRIL 1

West End and Fairburn Due for Census Sampling

By MARJORIE SMITH

Residents of Atlanta's West End and the rural area around Fairburn will get a "sneak preview" of the 1950 census today.

W. H. Whitehurst, Atlanta District Supervisor of the U. S. Bureau of the Census, disclosed that 25 men and women, now training for the mammoth "nose-counting" to begin April 1 over the nation, will take samplings in West End and the Fairburn section today. "People don't expect us," he admitted. "The census isn't supposed to start until April 1. But we decided crew leaders now in training needed a little actual experience in census-taking."

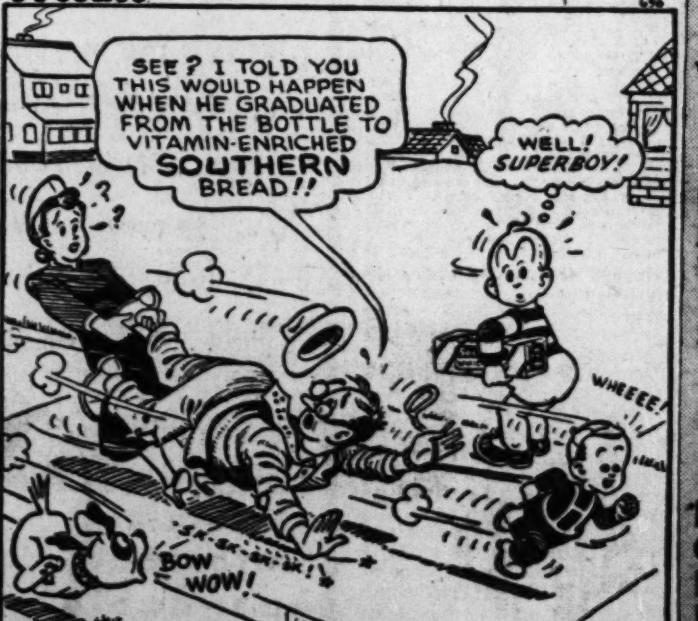

"This will be the real thing, and enumerations taken today will be part of the official census." Crew-leaders, each to be in charge of 20 census-takers during the coming population count, have been "going to school" in the New Post Office here this week, learning how to handle their work.

Householders in West End and the Fairburn area will know census-takers by an official yellow card and an arm-load of Government forms. Most of them are attractive Atlanta housewives. Whitehurst assured persons who will be questioned today that their answers will be treated in strict confidence.

"All census-takers are required to take a special oath of secrecy," he pointed out. In addition, if a census-taker gossips about the information given, he may be convicted of a felony and draw a maximum fine of $1,000 and two years in prison.

It works both ways. Citizens refusing to answer questions propounded by enumerators can be fined and jailed, with stiff penalties for giving false information. "But," Whitehurst declared, "we expect the fullest, most cheerful co-operation today and all during the 1950 census."

Mr. Powell and Bride Leave For Palm Beach Honeymoon

JACKSONVILLE, Fla.—Fitzhugh Knox Powell and his bride, the former Miss Margaret Ann Cochley, will arrive in Palm Beach today for their honeymoon, following their marriage which was brilliantly solemnized here last evening at the Swaim Memorial Methodist Church, with the pastor, the Rev. David J. Cathcart, officiating.

The bride is the lovely young daughter of Mrs. Herbert Light Cochley and the late Mr. Coch-ley, of Jacksonville. Mr. Powell is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Cecil W. Powell, of Jacksonville, his mother having been before her marriage Miss Evelyn Knox, of Atlanta. He bears the name of his maternal grandfather, a prominent Atlanta realtor at the time of his death.

Herbert Light Cochley, Jr., gave his sister in marriage, and Douglas Leatherbury, Jr., was best man. The bride chose a gown of ivory satin with yoke and Peter Pan collar of Chantilly lace. Her veil of illusion fell from a cap of matching lace, and she carried a spray of bride's roses and tuberose, centered with white orchids.

Miss Mary Elizabeth Cochley was the bride's maid of honor, and the bridesmaids were Miss Mary Martin Newsland and Mrs. William Laughlin. Robert Bowles, Charles Kreuger, Warren Thomas and Cooper Cubbage served as ushers.

Following the ceremony the bride's mother, Mrs. Cochley, entertained at a reception at the San Jose Country Club.

Mr. Powell and his bride will reside at 7849 Catawba Drive in Jacksonville.

MRS. THERON A. DENSON

Mrs. Denson was before her recent marriage Miss Evelyn Sargent, daughter of Mrs. W. C. Sargent, of College Park, and the late Mr. Sargent.

Your Mind's Mirror

(By LAWRENCE GOULD Consulting Psychologist)

Are successful people apt to forget old friends?

Answer: I have seen this happen, but what is more likely to break the old ties is the discomfort both sides feel at recognizing the almost inevitable envy and resentment of the less successful person. When a stranger becomes rich and famous, you can always tell yourself it was because he had a better chance in life than you did. But the more like yourself you know the successful fellow once was, the harder it is to find an excuse for your not having done what he did. And the more inferior this makes you feel, the more you hate him.

Should you let a child "do as he pleases"?

Answer: It's a good idea provided that he fully understands what the results will be and is willing to accept them. Liz Baker in Baby Post tells how her five-year-old daughter wanted to wear her new party dress out to play. The child assumed that if she got the dress torn or soiled, Mother would mend and wash it. But once she was convinced that this would not happen and that doing as she pleased might mean her going to a party ragged and bedraggled, she changed her play clothes of her own accord. She'd begun to grow up.

Are there times when most of us are insane?

Answer: Technically, yes, though the "insanity" cures itself automatically and is nothing to worry about. For dreams are "hallucinations," and the only difference between them and other delusions is that we recognize that they were unreal when we wake up. Your dream

Miss Smith Weds Mr. Cook At Chapel Rites

Miss Betty Jo Smith, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Ellington Smith, became the bride of Walter Branham Cook, of Atlanta and Valdosta, at a ceremony solemnized last evening at the Frances Winship Walters Chapel of St. Mark Methodist Church. Dr. Monroe F. Swilley, Jr., was the officiant.

Given in marriage by her father, the lovely bride chose for her marriage a taupe suit, which she wore with a pale rose blouse, brown accessories, and a taupe hat trimmed in pink roses and veiling. She carried a bouquet of orchids.

Miss Betty Wells was maid of honor, and John Alton Copland, Jr., of Columbus, was best man. Miss Wells was gowned in a deep green suit, an ivory blouse, and a brown hat and accessories. She carried a bouquet of pink roses.

The bride's cousin, Robert McKinlock, of Chattanooga, and Truman D. Calhoun served as ushers.

Following the ceremony, the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Smith, were hosts at dinner at the Biltmore Hotel, their guests including the wedding party, members of the two families, and the guests from a distance.

Mr. Cook and his bride left for an unannounced destination for their honeymoon. They will reside in the Oakland Court Apartments.

Miss Kelley Wed To Mr. Fowlkes At Cathedral

Miss Patricia Kelley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roy J. Kelley, and Douglas Fowlkes, son of Mr. and Mrs. Claude Fowlkes, were married at an afternoon ceremony held yesterday at St. Philip's Cathedral, with the Rev. Colin Campbell, of Columbus, officiating.

Following the ceremony, Mr. and Mrs. Kelley entertained at a reception at their home on Stratford Road in compliment to their daughter and Mr. Fowlkes.

James Bonner was best man for Mr. Fowlkes, and the bride's only attendant was Miss Lucy Filber, maid of honor. Miss Filber wore a navy blue dress with matching hat and carried a bouquet of yellow carnations.

Mr. Kelley gave his daughter in marriage. She chose for the ceremony a yellow gabardine suit which she wore with yellow and taupe accessories. She carried a white prayer book, belonging to the groom's mother, which was caught with white orchids.

The bride's brother, Jack Kelley, and Tommy Rentz, served as ushers.

The bridal couple left for a honeymoon at Daytona Beach. They will reside with the bride's parents on N. Stratford Road.

Miss Burton Weds in Gown Belonging to Matron of Honor

Wearing the ivory satin wedding gown belonging to her matron of honor, Mrs. H. Glenn Little, Jr., Miss Beverly Anne Burton became the bride of Henry Grady Lyle at a ceremony solemnized last evening by the Rev. John R. Brokoff at the Lutheran Church of the Redeemer.

With the gown, the bride, who was given in marriage by her uncle, E. R. Johnson, of Atlanta, wore an illusion veil which was fastened to a seed pearl coronet, the veil having also been loaned by Mrs. Little. She carried a prayer book topped with white orchids and valley lilies.

The bride's cousin, Miss Shirley Johnson, was maid of honor. She and Mrs. Little were dressed alike in ballerinas of pale green organza trimmed with lace insertion, with white gloves and slippers. They carried nosegays of small white flowers.

W. K. Edmondson was best man, and the groomsmen included H. Glenn Little, Jr., Wilton E. Sweetin, Thomas N. Lyle, the groom's brother, and Joe W. Ozmer.

Mrs. Clara Johnson Burton, the bride's mother, entertained at a reception in the Schreier Building of the church after the ceremony. Mr. Lyle and his bride left for a honeymoon in New Orleans, after which they will reside in Atlanta.
